

PUBLIC HEALTH AND ARTS, MINOR IN

A minor in public health and the arts consists of 18 credits, nine of which must be taken at the 300 level. The minor will provide students with an introduction to public health, health promotion and the different media of art, and will give them the opportunity to frame how these can be combined to relay health information and the impact of health programming. The minor is a great complement for students in the arts or other humanities disciplines, who are interested in community work but unsure how to do so within their discipline. It is also an excellent option for those who want to improve community health through creative expression.
